

More than three in five union members are in favor of a comprehensive immigration reform proposal that includes a roadmap to citizenship and emphasizes workers' rights.

Proposal Text
Under this proposal, the federal government would establish a roadmap to citizenship for immigrants currently living and working in the U.S. Employers who continue to violate the law and hire unauthorized workers would be punished and face strict fines and penalties. In the future, employers would be able to bring in foreign workers only when the economy is strong enough so that there are real shortages of workers, and those workers would have the same rights as all other workers.

Now I'm going to read you a description of a comprehensive immigration reform proposal. Please tell me whether you FAVOR or OPPOSE this proposal. [READ PROPOSAL] Do you favor or oppose this comprehensive immigration reform proposal or are you not sure?

Members of the government, manufacturing, and other sectors are more likely to favor the comprehensive immigration reform proposal than those in the building trades sector. Still, a majority of the trades members favor comprehensive immigration reform.

Now I'm going to read you a description of a comprehensive immigration reform proposal. Please tell me whether you FAVOR or OPPOSE this proposal. [READ PROPOSAL] Do you favor or oppose this comprehensive immigration reform proposal or are you not sure?